CENSUS OF BUSINESS: 1935

Fred A. Gosnell, Chief Statistician
William A. Ruff, Assistant

This is one of a series of final volumes on Retail Distribution, a part of the Census of Business, 1935. The information on employment and pay roll herein contained is presented in two sections. Section One (Table 2) shows the number of paid employees by months, together with the average number for the year. In Section Two (Table 2-C) are presented employment and pay roll data for one week of 1935, analyzed by occupational groups.

Table 2 of this volume corresponds in part to Table 2 of Retail Volume II of the 1933 Census of American Business.

The statistics were collected in 1936 by a field canvass of retail stores in every State, city and county in the United States, by the Bureau of the Census, with funds provided by the Works Progress Administration. They cover the operations of retailers during the year 1935. They were tabulated, analyzed and published by the Business Census division, in the Bureau's branch in Philadelphia.

Retail reports are prepared under the supervision of John Guernsey, Distribution Economist for the Census Bureau, by Ira D. Anderson, Retail Assistant, Hugh Duffey, and Irwin Heine.

ARRANGEMENT AND CONTENTS OF VOLUMES

Vol. I - United States Summary. Contains national summaries, under various classifications, of the data presented in other volumes in detail; a general description of retail trade in 1935; comparisons with the previous Retail Censuses of 1933 and 1929; definitions of terms and classifications; and summaries of the Wholesale, Service and other Censuses which contain data directly related to retail census data.

It also contains new matter not treated in greater detail elsewhere, including some sales comparisons of groups of identical stores for 1935, 1934 and 1933; a summary of the number and nature of stores operated by negro proprietors; and sample compilations of other data so limited in interest or so incomplete as to be excluded from detailed treatment in area volumes.

Vol. II - County and City Summaries. Contains (1) a summary of all types and kinds of retail business (combined) for each State, county, city and place of more than 2,500 population and remainder of each county; (2) a series of tables for each city of more than 50,000 population, by 54 kinds of business; (3) a series of tables for each city of 10,000 to 50,000 population, by 11 business groups; (4) analyses by size of city, for each State, of all stores and sales arranged in 11 business groups.

Vol. III - Kinds of Business, By Areas. Contains a series of tables showing stores and sales by kinds of business in each State, county, city and place of more than 2,500 population, and remainder of each county. For this purpose all kinds of business are included in 11 business groups and reported uniformly for each area. For greater detail the 11 groups are expanded in separate tables, for each State as a whole and for cities of more than 500,000 population, into 66 detailed business classifications.

Vol. IV - Types of Operation. Contains an analysis of stores, sales, personnel, pay rolls and operating expenses, by types of operation (independents, chains and other types), for each State as a whole and for each city of more than 500,000 population, for (1) all kinds of business combined and (2) 26 principal kinds of business separately.

Vol. V - Employment and Pay Roll. Contains monthly employment data by kinds of business, for States and for cities of more than 500,000 population; also data on rates of pay, full-time versus part-time status, by occupational classes of employment (executives, office workers, salespeople, etc.), and employment by sex.

Vol. VI - Credit Sales, Stocks, Size of Business, and Other Data. Contains data on credit and instalment sales, value of merchandise stocks on hand at the end of the year, analyses by size of business, and analyses by sources of sales volume (whether sales of merchandise, meals and fountain, or repairs and services).

Special-Subject Reports. Some special reports in booklet form will be published, bringing together available Census data on subjects of general interest. Among those in preparation, the completion of which is subject to the limitations of time and budget, are:

Retail Chains and Ownership Groups
Consumer Cooperatives and Voluntary Chains
Food Retailing
Liquor Retailing
Apparel Retailing (including Shoes)
Automotive, Gasoline and Oil Retailing
Furniture and Household Appliance Retailing
Drug Retailing
Retail Operating Expenses

RETAIL DISTRIBUTION: 1935

VOLUME V

EMPLOYMENT AND PAY ROLL

This volume, which presents data on employment and pay roll of retail stores, is arranged in two sections.

Section One (Table 2) shows the number of paid employees for each month of 1935, the average number of employees for the year, and the number of active proprietors and firm members by 66 kinds of business for each State and each city of more than 500,000 population. Tables 2-A and 2-B present the same employment data for the United States by kinds of business and by geographic divisions and States, respectively. Summary tables (Table 1-A) for the United States by kinds of business, and by geographic divisions and States, showing number of stores, sales, personnel, pay roll and operating expenses are included at the beginning of Section One.

In Section Two (Table 2-C) employment and pay roll are presented for one week of 1935 for certain kinds of business. Full-time and part-time employment and pay roll are shown separately for the week and the number and pay roll of full-time employees and the number of part-time employees are shown by occupational groups. The data presented in this section provide a basis for determining the ratio of part-time to full-time employment and the average weekly wage of full-time employees.

Employment in 1935

Retail stores in 1935 engaged the services of 3,961,478 paid employees. In addition there were 1,511,734 active proprietors and firm members devoting the major portion of their time to the operation of their stores, resulting in total employment of 5,473,212 persons in retail stores.

Total employment in retail stores is further augmented by the members of proprietors' families who work full-time or part-time in the store but to whom no stated salary is paid. Although data on this subject were called for on the schedule forms, because of frequent misinterpretation of this item with resultant errors in reporting, the importance of family members in the operation of retail stores cannot be accurately determined from the information obtained in connection with the Census. Those members of proprietors' families who are paid a stated salary for working regularly on either a full-time or part-time basis are included as paid employees.

MONTHLY EMPLOYMENT

The number of paid employees in retail stores in the United States in 1935 increased from a low of 3,721,422 in January to a peak of 4,379,211 in December, a variation of 11.8 percent. With the exception of July, each month showed an increase in employment over the preceding one. However, as is shown in the table below, the month-to-month increases varied considerably. February employment showed a very small increase over that for January, and May had only a slightly greater increase over April. The employment for the months of August and November in each case was only .4 percent above that of the preceding month. As contrasted to these changes, April employment was 3.1 percent above March and that for the month of December showed a 5.6 percent gain over November.

The months of September to December, inclusive, show employment in excess of the average for the year. The 4,379,211 employment figure for the peak month of December was 10.5 percent higher than the average figure of 3,961,478. The total reported for the low month of January was 6.1 percent under the average.

Comparison With 1933

The average number of employees engaged in retail stores in 1935 was 15.4 percent greater than the corresponding number for 1933. Each month of 1935 showed more employees than the corresponding month in 1933, but the difference varied considerably by months. The month of March with the greatest difference showed an increase of 20.8 percent over 1933, while December with the smallest increase showed a 10.9 percent gain over December of 1933. In 1935, January was the low month of employment while in 1933 the low point occured in February. However, in each of the two years the difference between the months of January and February was small.

A comparative summary of the number of paid employees by months for 1935 and 1933 is given below:

Month	Number of employees (full-time and part-time)		Percent increase 1935 over 1933	Ratio of monthly employment to average for year		Percent change from preceding month
	1935	1933		1935	1933	1935	1933

Variations by Kinds of Business

In Table 2-A, Pages 24-25, the number of employees by months is given for each of 66 kinds of business. A study of the table shows that with few exceptions the low month of employment was January or February, with January the more common. December was the most frequent high month, followed by October.

Of the 12 kind-of-business groups, drug stores showed the smallest percent of change in employment from the low month to the high month. The December employment of 163,326 was only 6.3 percent above that for January. Food stores had only a slightly greater increase, with a 7 percent increase from 716,773 employees in January to 767,065 in December. As contrasted to these, the general merchandise group showed a gain of 48.5 percent from the low in February to the high in December. The increase in number of employees in this group was 321,849,reflecting both the seasonal variation and the increase in business which occurred during the year.

Both the kind-of-business groups and the individual classifications under the various groups show marked differences with regard to the high and low months of employment and the changes in employment from month to month. In many instances these differences indicate the relative importance of seasonal variation in the various lines of trade.

Variations by States

An examination of monthly employment figures by States shows that with few exceptions the low month of employment was January or February and the peak of employment came in the month of December. January was the low month for 23 States and February for 22. The State of New Mexico had exactly the same employment for January and February. For New Hampshire and Vermont March was the low month of employment, while for Florida the low was July. All but four States had their peak employment in December. August was the high month for Maine, New Hampshire, and Wyoming and October for North Dakota.

In Table 2-B on Page 27 the employment for each month is shown as a percentage of the average employment for the year. An examination of this table indicates the degree of seasonal variation in the various States. The Pacific Coast States, as a group, had the greatest amount of seasonal variation with a 21.5 point variation between the low month and the high month. The New England group showed the lowest variation in seasonal employment of any of the groups of States with a 13.8 point difference between the low month of February and the high month of December. The greatest variation in employment occurred in Utah with a spread of 28 points between the low month and the high month. It is followed by Florida with a difference of 23.9 points. Nine other States had a spread of more than 20 points between the low month and the high month of employment. Delaware showed the lowest seasonal variation with only a 11.3 point spread between the low month of January and the high month of December.

EMPLOYMENT AND PAY ROLL BY OCCUPATIONS

In this Census, information was obtained for the first time from retail stores relative to employment and pay roll by occupations, or the nature of the duties of employees. Each store was asked to report the actual employment and pay roll for the week ending October 26, 1935 or in the case of a highly seasonal business for a week of normal employment during the business season. The respondent was further requested to classify the employees for the week into executives and salaried corporation officers, office and clerical, selling, waiters and waitresses, and other employees, and to report for full-time and part-time separately the number and pay roll for the week.

The classification of employees according to the different occupational groups was not always clear cut or absolute. Many workers perform a variety of functions thus making it difficult for the respondent to classify such employees into a particular group. The stores were requested to classify those employees performing a number of functions in one group only, the group to be based upon the function which demanded the major portion of their time.

Another difficulty in obtaining absolute uniformity in reporting was that the occupational groups did not provide, to the same degree in different kinds of business, a natural basis for classifying employees. Certain kinds of business had classes of employees which apparently were not uniformly considered as belonging to a particular occupational group. For example, in the case of large milk dealers there was considerable variation in the reporting of driver-salesmen, some concerns putting the majority of such employees in the selling group, others classifying them primarily as "other employees." In the case of large stores operating on a highly departmentized basis there was some difficulty in getting uniform reporting of department heads, and of certain other employees in a supervisory or administrative position. Although for most stores such employees were properly classified in the "executive and salaried corporation officers" classification, in a few instances they were included as office and clerical and only the salaried corporation officers were shown under the executive group. In evaluating the information on the executive group and the office and clerical group, for department stores and other large stores operated on a departmentized basis, these difference in reporting should be considered.

The information on employment and pay roll for the representative week does not include all stores having employment. Some stores failed to answer the inquiry and in other cases the information for the week had to be deleted from tabulation because of the unsatisfactory character of the information. The tables indicate for each kind of business and for each area the number of stores reporting employees on the weekly basis. This number varies greatly in relation to the total number of stores in the various kinds of business, especially because of the varying proportion of stores with paid employees in the different kinds of business.

A comparison of the total number of employees for the week for a particular kind of business with the average number of employees for the year (Table 2-A) provides some measure of the extent of coverage. The weekly figures can also be compared with the monthly employment figures shown for October for that particular kind of business in the monthly employment table.

Full-time and Part-time Employment and Pay Roll

Of the 3,284,723 employees reported for the week, 2,641,041 (80.4 percent) were reported as full-time and the balance (19.6 percent) as part-time employees. The pay roll for full-time employees represented 92.1 percent of the total pay roll as compared to 7.9 percent for part-time employees.

The proportion of full-time and part-time employment varies considerably by kinds of business. The table below presents a summary of full-time and part-time comparisons by 11 kind-of-business groups. Food stores, as a group, showed the highest percentage of part-time employees with 24.5 percent of the total number reported on a part-time basis. The general merchandise group (dry goods and general merchandise, department stores, and variety stores) showed almost as high a ratio of part-time employment to total employment, with 24.2 percent. In contrast to these groups the automotive group (not including filling stations) showed the smallest percentage of part-time employment with only 7.4 percent of the employees being so reported. Similar information for individual kinds of business can be obtained from Table 2-C in Section Two.

Average Wage of Full-time Employees

The 2,641,041 full-time employees reported for the week were paid a total weekly pay roll of $51,660,716, or an average weekly wage of $19.56. The average compensation varied considerably by kinds of business. Jewelry stores reported the highest figure, $28.76, followed closely by dairy products stores and milk dealers with $28.05. Lunch counters and refreshment stands paid the lowest average weekly wage, $11.93. The restaurant, cafeteria and lunch room classification showed an average figure of $13.06, news dealers, $13.20 and variety stores $13.53. Gratuities constitute an additional income of many workers in the restaurant group, and are not included as pay roll.

Of the kind-of-business groups, the furniture-household group had the highest weekly wage, with an average of $24.89. The automotive group (excluding filling stations) was second with a weekly wage of $23.77, followed closely by the lumber-building-hardware group with $23.68. The lowest average weekly wage was $13.46 shown for eating and drinking places. Food stores with $19.66 and the general merchandise group (dry goods,general merchandise, department and variety stores) with $19.57 had almost exactly the same weekly wage.

As shown in the table below, the average weekly wage for full-time employees varied considerably by States and geographic divisions. As a group, the Pacific Coast States had the highest average with $22.20. This section of the country was followed by the Middle Atlantic with $21.42 and New England with $21.04. The lowest average weekly wages were in the Southern States, with $15.68 for the East South-Central group the lowest shown for any geographic division.

In evaluating the average weekly rates of pay, some consideration should be given to the differences in conditions in the various States that affect the average rates of compensation. For example, it is evident that those States or sections of the country that contain large cities tend to show considerably higher weekly wage rates, but that is not always the case.

Among the States, Nevada had the highest wage rate with $24.13, followed by $22.72 for Montana, $22.49 for California, and $22.46 for New York State. The lowest weekly wage rate was $14.23 for Mississippi. Louisiana was only slightly higher with $14.73.

Occupational Groups

Of the 3,284,723 employees reported for the representative week, 111,991, or 3.4 percent were executive and salaried corporation officers; 239,843, or 7.3 percent were office and clerical employees; 1,574,265, or 47.9 percent were selling employees; 375,232, or 11.4 percent were waiters and waitresses; and 983,392, or 30 percent were classified as "other employees".

The proportion of each occupational group to the total for all groups varied somewhat as between full-time and part-time employees. Of the 2,641,041 full-time employees reported, 4.1 percent were classified as executives, whereas part-time executives accounted for only .7 percent of the total number of part-time employees. Full-time office and clerical employees accounted for 8.2 percent of all full-time employees as compared with only 3.4 percent of part-time employees. As contrasted to these, the proportion of selling employees to total was greater in the case of part-time employment with 53.5 percent of the total number and only 46.6 percent of the total of full-time employees. The percentage of waiters and waitresses and other employees to the total of all employees varied only slightly as between full-time and part-time employees. Active proprietors are not included in this comparison.

Of the total pay roll for full-time employees 10.2 percent was paid to executives and salaried corporation officers, 8.8 percent to office and clerical, 46.8 percent or almost one-half to selling employees, 6.7 percent to waiters and waitresses and 27.5 percent to "other employees". Executives and salaried corporation officers were the highest paid employees at $49.16 per week, followed in order by office and clerical employees at $20.76, selling employees at $19.65, other employees at $18.10 and waiters and waitresses at $11.59. A summary of the information on occupational groups is presented in the following table:

Employment By Sex

Each store was asked to report the number of paid employees for the representative week by sex. A summary of this information by kinds of business and by States is shown on Page 203. Of the 3,284,723 employees reported for the week, 30.5 percent are women. As all stores with employees did not answer the representative week inquiry, the total number of women employed in retail trade cannot be stated exactly. However, it is likely that the percent of women as shown by the stores reporting weekly information is fairly representative of retail trade as a whole.

The ratio of women to the total varies greatly with the kind of business from a low of 3.5 percent in garages to a high of 92.9 percent in millinery stores. The number of women accounts for more than one-third of the total for each of the following kinds of business; candy and confectionery stores, other food stores, dry goods and general merchandise stores, department stores, variety stores, family clothing stores. women's ready-to-wear stores, millinery stores, other apparel stores, restaurants and lunch rooms, lunch counters and refreshment stands, book stores, and gift, novelty and souvenir shops.

The ratio of women to the total number of employees shows some variation by States (see Table 2-D, Page 203). Pennsylvania had the highest proportion of women employees, 35.8 percent, followed closely by Minnesota with 35 percent. The lowest proportion of women employees was in Alabama where they constituted 24.8 percent, or slightly less than one out of four.

DEFINITION OF TERMS AND CLASSIFICATIONS

Stores.--Places of business predominately retail in character, in and from which goods are sold to ultimate consumers for consumption or utilization. The number includes filling stations, garages, market stands, lumber and coal yards, eating and drinking places, mail-order houses, district offices of house-to-house canvassers, and leased departments, in addition to retail places of business commonly known as stores.

Active proprietors and firm members.--Proprietors or partner-owners of unincorporated businesses devoting the major portion of their time to the operation of the business. They are not included in the count of employees, nor is their compensation included in pay roll. Corporate officers and executives of corporations are classified as employees, not as proprietors or firm members.

Employees.--The number of full-time and part-time paid employees, including salaried corporation officers and executives. Active proprietors and firm members are not included in the count of employees. The average number of employees (full-time and part-time) for the year is obtained by totalling the number reported monthly (for the pay period ending nearest the 15th of each month) and dividing the sum by 12. However, in all tables, the total of the "average number of employees" column, represents the sum of the detail of that column, rather than the true average number of employees for the table total, which would be obtained by dividing the sum of the monthly employment by twelve. This same method of treatment likewise explains the failure of sub-totals in the "average number of employees" column to agree exactly with the true averages for the respective sub-divisions.

Full-time and part-time employees.--The Census defined a full-time employee as one regularly engaged for work for four or more hours per day or for more than three full days per week. Employees working on a full-time basis but for only a part of the year were to be reported as full-time employees. All other employees were reported as part-time workers.

Pay roll.--The total compensation (salaries, wages, commissions and bonuses) paid to all employees. This item does not include compensation received by proprietors and firm members of unincorporated businesses.

Employment and pay roll by occupational groups.--In order to obtain a measure of full-time and part-time employment and an analysis of retail employment and pay roll by occupational classes, each respondent having employees was asked to classify them by occupational groups, full-time and part-time separately. Data on the number of employees and pay roll for one week were obtained for the following groups: executives and salaried corporation officers; office and clerical employees; selling employees (other than waiters and waitresses); waiters and waitresses; and other employees. Where an employee performed a variety of functions and thus could be classified in more than one group, he was reported on the basis of the function requiring the major portion of his time in 1935.

Executives and salaried corporation officers.--This group includes salaried officers of corporations, such as president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer, and non-owner paid employees of single proprietorships or partnerships working in the same capacity as corporation officers. In addition, this group includes other hired executives such as merchandise managers, credit managers, controllers department heads or buyers, and others who devote the major portion of their time to responsible administrative and supervisory duties.

Office and clerical employees.—This classification includes bookkeepers, cashiers, accountants, stenographers, office secretaries and other so-called "white-collar workers", except salespeople.

Selling employees.—Included under this group are all employees who devote the major portion of their time to the actual selling of merchandise or service over the counter, by house-to-house canvass, by telephone, or by correspondence. In departmentized stores the respondents were requested to report as selling employees all employees carried on the pay roll of the selling departments, except heads of the departments and other persons with administrative or supervisory responsibility. Waiters and waitresses were reported as a separate group, not included under selling employees.

Waiters and waitresses.—This group includes those persons primarily engaged in the serving of food or drinks in restaurants and other places serving food or drinks. Generally these employees are dependent to some extent upon the receipt of "tips" as compensation in addition to their wages.

Other employees.—In general, two types of employees are included under this group: (a) those whose duties or functions are of such a nature that they could not properly be classified in any one of the other groups (for example, maintenance employees, elevator operators, delivery-truck drivers, etc.); (b) those performing functions falling within two or more of the classifications described above, with no one function dominating.

Representative week.—For the purposes of reporting employees and pay roll by occupational classes, the week ending October 26, 1935 was selected as fairly representative for retail trade. In some cases, however, where another week was considered more representative, data covering that period were reported.

Kinds of business.-Each retail store is classified by kind of business (grocery store, hardware store, cigar store, etc.), according to the principal lines or commodities sold, or the usual trade designation. The kind-of-business classifications are described in detail in the United States Summary, Volume I of this final series.

VOLUME V

SECTION ONE - Monthly Employment

Section One contains a series of tables (Table 2), one for each State and each city of more than 500,000 population, showing monthly employment by 66 kinds of business. The number of active proprietors is also shown in order to provide a more complete picture of the personnel of retail stores. Proprietors are not included in the count of employees, nor is their compensation included in pay roll.

United States Summary Tables, showing monthly employment by kinds of business (Table 2-A) and by geographic divisions and States (Table 2-B) are shown on Pages 24-25 and 26-27, respectively. United States Summary tables, showing stores, sales, personnel, pay roll and operating expenses by kinds of business and by States (Table 1-A from Volume III) are reproduced on Pages 22-23 in order to provide ready reference to the material.

The monthly employment tables for States are arranged alphabetically. The cities are placed immediately after the States of which they are a part, and are paged as follows:

VOLUME V

SECTION TWO - Employment and Pay Roll By Occupations

Section Two contains a series of tables presenting data on employment and pay roll of retail stores for one week of 1935. In most instances, the figures reported were for the week ending October 26. In some cases, however, where another week was considered more representative, data covering that period were reported.

The number of employees shown for the week does not represent the total employment in retail stores, as a number of stores with paid employees failed to answer the inquiry on employment and pay roll for one week.

In Table 2-C, for each kind-of-business group and for selected kinds of business, the number of employees and amount of pay roll, full-time and part-time separately, are given by States. In addition, the full-time employment and pay roll and the number of part-time employees are shown by occupational groups. Pay roll for executives is omitted from the table. While it is possible to obtain figures, it is thought that they do not furnish a reliable basis for determining an average weekly wage.

Pay roll figures are not shown where the number of employees is less than 50 as such small groups of employees in many instances do not constitute a large enough sample to give a representative pay roll figure. In evaluating the wages shown for different groups of employees, consideration should be given to the size of the group in each case.

The kind-of-business group tables include the figures for all individual kinds of business under the groups rather than just those for the individual kinds of business for which Table 2-C is presented. Certain kinds of business, primarily because of the relatively small number of employees involved, are not shown by States, but United States totals are shown in Table 2-C, Page 155. These kinds of business are delicatessen stores, used-car dealers, floor coverings-drapery stores, radio dealers, heating and plumbing equipment dealers, electrical supply stores, book stores, gift, novelty and souvenir shops, news dealers, sporting goods stores, and beer and liquor stores (packaged).

CENSUS OF BUSINESS: 1935

Fred A. Gosnell, Chief Statistician

Data on retail credit business in 1933 was presented in Retail Volume V of the 1933 Census of American Business. Retail Volume VI of the 1933 reports contains an analysis of stores and sales by size of business. Table 5 was presented in the 1933 reports on a United States Summary basis only, in Volume I for that year.

The statistics were collected in 1936 by a field canvass of retail stores in every State, city and county in the United States, by the Bureau of the Census, with funds provided by the Works Progress Administration. They cover the operations of retailers during the year 1935. They were tabulated, analyzed and published by the Business Census division, in the Bureau's branch in Philadelphia.

Retail reports are prepared under the supervision of John Guernsey, Distribution Economist for the Census Bureau, by Ira D. Anderson, Retail Assistant, Hugh Duffey, and Irwin Heine.

ARRANGEMENT AND CONTENTS OF VOLUMES

Vol. I - United States Summary. Contains national summaries, under various classifications, of the data presented in other volumes in detail; a general description of retail trade in 1935; comparisons with the previous Retail Censuses of 1933 and 1929; definitions of terms and classifications; and summaries of the Wholesale, Service and other Censuses which contain data directly related to retail census data.

It also contains new matter not treated in greater detail elsewhere, including some sales comparisons of groups of identical stores for 1935, 1934 and 1933; a summary of the number and nature of stores operated by negro proprietors; and sample compilations of other data so limited in interest or so incomplete as to be excluded from detailed treatment in area volumes.

Vol. II - County and City Summaries. Contains (1) a summary of all types and kinds of retail business (combined) for each State, county, city and place of more than 2,500 population and remainder of each county; (2) a series of tables for each city of more than 50,000 population, by 54 kinds of business; (3) a series of tables for each city of 10,000 to 50,000 population, by 11 business groups; (4) analyses by size of city, for each State, of all stores and sales arranged in 11 business groups.

Vol. III - Kinds of Business, By Areas. Contains a series of tables showing stores and sales by kinds of business in each State, county, city and place of more than 2,500 population, and remainder of each county. For this purpose all kinds of business are included in 11 business groups and reported uniformly for each area. For greater detail the 11 groups are expanded in separate tables, for each State as a whole and for cities of more than 500,000 population, into 66 detailed business classifications.

Vol. IV - Types of Operation. Contains an analysis of stores, sales, personnel, pay rolls and operating expenses, by types of operation (independents, chains and other types), for each State as a whole and for each city of more than 500,000 population, for (1) all kinds of business combined and (2) 26 principal kinds of business separately.

Vol. V - Employment and Pay Roll. Contains monthly employment data by kinds of business, for States and for cities of more than 500,000 population; also data on rates of pay, full-time versus part-time status, by occupational classes of employment (executives, office workers, salespeople, etc.), and employment by sex.

Vol. VI. - Credit Sales, Analysis of Sales and Stocks, and Size of Business. Contains data on credit and instalment sales, value of merchandise stocks on hand at the end of the year, analyses by size of business, and analyses by sources of sales volume (whether sales of merchandise, meals and fountain, or repairs and services).

Special-Subject Reports. Some special reports in booklet form will be published, bringing together available Census data on subjects of general interest. Among those in preparation, the completion of which is subject to the limitations of time and budget, are:

Retail Operating Expenses
Retail Chains, Ownership Groups, Mail Order Sales
Consumers Cooperatives and Voluntary Chains
Food Retailing
Drug Retailing
Liquor Retailing
Apparel Retailing (including shoes)
Automotive, Gasoline and Oil Retailing
Furniture and Household Appliance Retailing

VOLUME VI

CREDIT SALES, ANALYSIS OF SALES AND STOCKS, AND SIZE OF BUSINESS

This volume, which presents analyses of retail sales and stocks and data on size of business, is arranged in three sections.

Section One (Table 5) provides a credit-cash analysis of retail sales by 66 kinds of business. Table 5 is shown for each State and each city of more than 500,000 population. Table 5-A presents a summary of the data for the United States by kinds of business.

In Section Two (Table 7) is shown a breakdown of retail sales by sources (whether sales of merchandise, meals and fountain, services, or other sources) by 66 kinds of business, for each State and each city of more than 500,000 population. Data on the value of stocks on hand and sales to other retailers are also included in Table 7. United States Summaries by kinds of business and by States and geographic divisions are presented in Tables 7-A and 7-B.

Section Three presents an analysis of retail trade by size of business. Table 4, one for each kind of business and each kind-of-business group, provides data on the number of stores and sales (exclusive of chain and mail-order units) in specified size of business groups by States. Table 4-C provides a further breakdown of the under $5,000 sales group for those kinds of business in which the number of stores and amount of sales in that size group justify further sub-division. United States Summaries of the size data, exclusive of chain and mail-order units, by kinds of business and by States and geographic division are shown in Tables 4-A, 4-B, 4-D, and 4-E. United States Summaries of size data for chain and mail-order units by kinds of business are presented in Tables 4-G and 4-H.

CREDIT SALES

Of the 1,653,961 retail stores in 1935, 1,486,029 or 90 percent are included in the cash-credit analysis of sales. Their sales of $27,888,261,000 (exclusive of receipts from other sources) represent 84.5 percent of the corresponding sales total for all stores. Although each store was requested to report a sub-divison of its sales (exclusive of receipts from other sources) into open-account, installment, and cash and

C. O. D. sales, the remaining stores failed to report on this item, or misinterpretation of the inquiry by the respondent made it necessary to delete the report from the credit tabulations. There is no reason to believe that the stores not included in this analysis have a different ratio of credit sales than is shown for the 90 percent analyzed.

The analysis indicates that in 1935 retailers did 67.8 percent of their business on a cash or C. O. D. basis, 21.3 percent on open account and 10.9 percent on the instalment basis.

The size of the sample, both of stores and sales, varies considerably by kinds of business, with the sales ratio falling between 80 percent and 95 percent for most kinds of business. One notable exception is motor-vehicle dealers (new) with only 42.9 percent of the total sales of all such dealers represented in the credit-cash analysis. This relatively low percentage is due to the exclusion from the tabulations of those schedules which indicated that the dealers had reported instalment sales financed by third parties as cash sales and not as instalment sales. The 42.9 percent sample provides a more dependable measure of the actual proportion of instalment sales to total sales of motor-vehicle dealers than would otherwise result from a larger sample. The indicated sales proportions for new car dealers are 30.1 percent cash, 59.9 percent instalment credit and 10.0 percent open-account credit.

The relative proportions of total open-account, instalment, and cash sales (all kinds of business combined) would be distorted by the differences in percentage of coverage of the individual kinds of business, especially by the relatively low proportion of motor-vehicle dealer sales included in the credit-cash analysis, if such totals were shown in the United States Summary, Page 23. Instead, projected United States totals are shown, which correct for these differences in percentage of coverage. The projected totals for the United States are obtained by applying to the total sales of each kind of business, the open-account, instalment, and cash percentages shown for the stores analyzed. The amounts so determined are added to obtain the United States totals. The table on the following page presents a breakdown of such projected United States totals, showing the amounts of open-account, instalment, and cash sales by kinds of business.

Likewise in Table 5 (which reports separately each State and each city of over 500,000 population) the totals for the open-account, instalment, and cash columns are not shown. Projected totals for each of these areas may be determined in the same manner as that used for the United States totals as described above.

Credit Sales in 1935

As shown by the projected United States totals presented on the preceding table, approximately one-third (32.2 percent) of total retail sales in 1935 were credit sales. Sales on open account represented 21.3 percent of total retail sales, or about two-thirds of the credit business, with instalment sales accounting for the other third of the total credit transactions. Instalment sales represented 10.9 percent of the total retail sales volume in 1935.

Comparisons With 1933 and 1929

Comparisons with 1933 and 1929 must be qualified by reason of certain differences in the credit inquiry and in the method of presenting material in previous Censuses. In 1929 a considerable number of stores - 240,604 with sales aggregating $5,894,681,000 - failed to report clearly whether, and how much, they sold on credit and were not included in the 1929 credit tabulations. The credit analysis for 1929 was carried through on the 1,302,554 stores after the 240,604 stores, not sufficiently identified, were eliminated. In 1933, with a simpler schedule, coverage on the credit questionnaire was more complete and the few stores which failed to report clearly on the credit sales were grouped with cash stores for practical purposes. No instalment inquiry was included in 1933.

In 1929 data were available which made it possible to estimate the approximate amount of instalment credit. The credit amount reported in 1933 covered only credit extended by retailers; that is, sales for which they received no immediate payment in cash. The degree to which the 1933 amount may have included consumer credit extended through instalment-finance companies could not be determined from the data available. In 1935 the respondent was requested to report instalment sales handled by a finance company or other third party as instalment sales and not as cash transactions, even though cash proceeds of the sale were received by the seller immediately upon consummation of the sale.

CREDIT BY KINDS OF BUSINESS

Table 5 presents data for each State and each city of over 500,000 population on the amount of open-account, instalment, and cash and C.O.D. sales by 66 kinds of business for 1935, and shows the percentage of the total business reported on each of the three bases. The table also provides a comparison of the number of stores and sales included in the credit-cash analysis as compared to the totals for all stores in each classification. Table 5-A presents the same information for the United States as a whole. To obtain comparable State or national totals the figures must be projected as described on page 10.

The largest percentage of credit business for any of the 66 kinds of business was reported by household appliance and radio stores with 74.5 percent of the sales on a credit basis. Sales on an instalment basis accounted for 54.9 percent of the total sales of that kind of business, with open-account credit representing 19.6 percent. Furniture stores show almost as high a credit percent with 48.7 percent instalment and 23.6 percent on open-account, a total of 72.3 percent. Lumber and building-material dealers show 70.7 percent credit sales, and motor-vehicle dealers (new) 69.9 percent.

In general the largest percentage of credit is reported by stores in the furniture-household, lumber-building-hardware, and automotive groups. Under the "Other Retail Stores" group certain individual kinds of business show relatively high credit proportions, such as book stores, fuel and ice dealers and jewelry stores. The 11.7 percent of instalment business shown for "other classifications" is accounted for largely by instalment sales reported by office and store equipment dealers and by piano and other musical instrument dealers.

The food group as a whole shows that slightly over one-fifth of the total business is done on a credit basis. Within the group, however, the percentage of credit varies from a high of 58.8 percent for dairy products stores and milk dealers to a low of 2.2 percent for candy and confectionery stores. Grocery stores (without meats) show 15.9 percent, combination stores (groceries and meats) 23.2 percent, and meat markets 15.5 percent.

In the general merchandise group, department stores report 26.8 percent open-account credit and 9.7 percent instalment, a total of 36.5 percent. The sales of variety stores are almost entirely cash transactions with only .1 percent reported as credit business.

Under the apparel group, men's clothing and furnishings stores report 25.2 percent credit business, family clothing stores 40.4 percent and women's ready-to-wear stores 26.2 percent. Of the family clothing store sales, 17 percent were made on an instalment basis. In the table on page 14 are presented relative proportions of open-account, instalment, and cash and C.O.D. sales for selected kinds of business.

Credit Ratio By Areas

For practically all kinds of business, the relative proportion of credit and cash sales to total sales varies considerably by areas. As a separate Table 5 is presented for each State and each city of more than 500,000 population, the variation in percentage of credit by areas for each of 66 kinds of business can be readily determined from a comparison of these tables.

Chain Sales Ratios Affect Credit

An important factor in any consideration of variations in percentage of credit business, either between various kinds of business or between different areas in the case of a particular kind of business, is the relative importance of chain store sales to total sales. For example, a lower percentage of credit business in grocery stores in one state than in another may be due largely to the greater relative importance of chains in the grocery trade in the first State.

The relative importance of independents, chains and other types of operation in each State as a whole and in 26 principal kinds of business is shown in Volume IV of this final series of reports on Retail Distribution. To provide ready reference, a United States Summary of stores and sales for independents, chains and other types of operation for the 26 kinds of business is presented on Page 22 of this volume.

ANALYSIS OF SALES BY SOURCES

Of the $33,161,276,000 of total sales reported by retail stores for the year 1935, 92.5 percent represented sales of merchandise, 5.3 percent receipts from the sale of meals and from fountain, 1.7 percent repairs, storage and service receipts, with other sources accounting for the remaining 0.5 percent. Thus the great majority of retail receipts are derived from the sale of merchandise and meals and fountain sales, whereas repairs, storage, service and "other sources", combined, account for only 2.2 percent of the total.

An analysis of retail sales by kind-of-business groups, showing merchandise sales, sales of meals and from fountain, repairs, storage, and other service sales, and receipts from other sources, is presented in the table below:

ANALYSIS OF SALES (Sources of Revenue)

Sales of Meals and From Fountain

A study of the above table shows that meals and fountain sales accounted for 62.4 percent of the total sales of eating and drinking places and 9.8 percent of the total sales of drug stores. However, within the first mentioned group, restraurants, cafeterias and lunch rooms reported 86.5 percent of their receipts from the sale of meals and from fountain, and lunch counters and refreshment stands reported 79.8 percent, as compared to only 9 percent for drinking places. If the receipts from meals and fountain are compared not to the total sales of all drug stores but rather to the total for those stores having such receipts (drug stores with fountain) they represent 12.7 percent, or slightly more than one-eighth of the business of such stores. In the table below are presented the sales of meals and from fountain in those kinds of business reporting sizable amounts of such sales. The percentage of total sales of meals and from fountain accounted for by each classification, and the relative importance of these receipts to the total sales of each kind of business, are also shown:

Kind of Business	Sales of meals and from fountain (add 000)	% of total meals and fountain sales	% of total store sales

*Based on information from the Hotels Census, it is estimated that hotel dining rooms account for additional sales of meals of approximately $200,000,000.

Repairs, Storage and Service Receipts

The automotive group exclusive of filling stations accounted for 70.2 percent of the $571,217,000 of repairs, storage and service receipts for all retail stores. Motor-vehicle dealers (new) reported $209,841,000 of such receipts which represented 36.7 percent of the total service receipts for all kinds of business combined and 5.6 percent of the total sales of motor-vehicle dealers. The $167,601,000 of repairs, storage and service receipts for garages, which make up 45.3 percent of total garage sales, represented 29.3 percent of total service sales.

The $44,160,000 of service sales reported for filling stations accounted for 7.7 percent of all service sales and represented 2.2 percent of the total sales of filling stations. Among the other kind-of-business classifications showing sizable amounts of repairs, storage and service receipts are accessories, tire and battery dealers, department stores, jewelry stores, household appliance and radio stores, heating and plumbing equipment dealers, furriers and fur shops, hardware and farm implement dealers, radio dealers, and custom tailors.

Retailers' receipts from repairs, storage and service are off-set to some extent by the sale of merchandise and meals by service establishments, places of amusement, and hotels. Volume I of the Retail Distribution series, contains an analysis taken from the Service Census of 1935 showing the nature of receipts of service establishments, places of amusement, and hotels. The total of merchandise sales by such establishments, as shown therein, is $49,104,000.

Sales to Other Retailers

In 1935 retailers made sales to other retailers to the extent of $537,749,000. Most of this amount may be regarded as "wholesale" business in the sense that it is for resale and appears again in other retailers' sales. Offsetting this amount is an item of sales by wholesalers to ultimate consumers which in 1935 amounted to $510,282,000 (as reported in Volume VII of the Wholesale Distribution series for 1935). Retail Volume 1 presents an analysis of this amount by kinds of business as classified by the Wholesale Census.

Of the $537,749,000 of sales to other retailers, 28.9 percent was accounted for by motor-vehicle dealers (new). The $155,255,000 of such sales from one dealer to another represented 4.2 percent of the total sales of motor-vehicle dealers. Dairy products stores and milk dealers, with $52,015,000 of sales to other retailers, accounted for 9.7 percent of the total of all such sales. Among the other kinds of business reporting sizable amounts of sales to other retailers are fuel and ice dealers, beer and liquor stores (packaged), combination stores (groceries and meats), lumber and building-material dealers, hay, grain and feed stores, meat markets, grocery stores, farm and garden supply stores, and paint, glass and wall-paper stores.

Stocks on Hand

In addition to presenting data on retail sales by sources, and the amount of sales to other retailers, Table 7 shows the value of merchandise stocks on hand at the end of the year. The total at cost values as of December 31, 1935 was $4,297,959,000, which compares with $3,903,969,000 at the end of 1933 and $7,262,583,000 at the end of 1929. Although turnover ratios cannot be computed from end-of-year stocks at cost and annual sales at retail, it is possible to show comparable stock-sales ratios on that basis (sales divided by stock) for the three years, as follows: 1935, 7.7; 1933, 6.4; 1929, 6.8.

ANALYSIS BY SIZE OF BUSINESS

Sixty percent of all stores in 1935 did less than $10,000 of business and accounted in the aggregate for 11.0 percent of the total of retail sales. More than two-thirds of these stores had sales for the year of less than $5,000. In contrast, stores with 1935 sales of $50,000 or more, although representing only 7.2 percent of all stores, accounted for 53.3 percent of total sales. A summary of the percentages of stores and sales by size groups for 1935, together with 1933 and 1929 comparisons is shown below:

Size by Type of Operation

In this Census for the first time separate analyses of size of business for independent stores and for chain units are presented. Mail-order units are combined with chain stores in order to maintain combinations made in the type-of-operation data in Volume IV (Types of Operation) to prevent disclosure of individual operations. The totals for chain and mail-order units as shown in Table 4G agree with the totals for these two types of operation as published in Volume IV. The totals for independents and other types (excluding mail-order) exceed the totals published in Volume IV by 987 stores and $87,777,000 sales because of the necessity of including in the independent figures in certain States small numbers of chain units which were combined in Volume IV to prevent the disclosure of confidential information. As these chain stores and sales included in independents are also in the chain and mail-order house figures, the sum of the totals for chain and mail units (Table 4G) and for the independents (and other types) (Table 4A exceeds the published totals for stores and sales (Table 1A) by the 987 stores and the $87,777,000 sales.

Only slightly more than 5 percent of the independents and other types had sales of $50,000 or more in 1935 as compared to almost 32 percent in the case of chain and mail-order units. Approximately 47 percent of the independents' sales were accounted for by the $50,000 or over stores, while the corresponding size for chain and mail-order units did about 74 percent of the total.

The lower size groups also show clearly the difference in size of business with 64 percent of the independents (including other types) doing less than $10,000 of business in 1935 as compared to only 11 percent for chain and mail-order units. The most common size group for independents is the "less than $5,000 sales" group (44.5 percent of all stores), while for chain and mail-order units the largest proportion of the stores (23.46 percent) is accounted for by the "$30,000 to $49,999" group. The following table presents a summary of size of business by type-of-operation for all kinds of business combined. Similar comparisons for kinds-of-business classifications can be made by using Tables 4A and 4G:

Size of Independents by Kinds of Business

Although, as pointed out in the above discussion, 64 percent of the independent stores (all kinds of business combined) did less than $10,000 business in 1935, there are marked variations in size of store among the different kinds of business. The following discussion of size by kinds of business is based on the tables (Table 4) as presented for independents and other types (exclusive of chain and mail-order units).

The food group of stores, averaging in sales $11,451 per store, is predominantly a small store group, with 47.8 percent doing less than $5,000 per year and only 2.2 doing as much as $50,000 per year. Meat markets and combination stores show a larger proportion of stores over $5,000 than any other kind of business in the food field Only 7 percent of all food stores had sales of $100,000 or over in 1935, but these stores did 12.4 percent of the total business.

All department stores by definition exceed $100,000 of sales per store, whereas 56 percent of dry-goods and general-merchandise stores do less than $10,000 of business per year. Most of the variety store business (90.8 percent) is done by chains, but the remaining 9.2 percent is divided among more than 6,000 independent variety stores, 58.4 of which had sales of less than $10,000 in 1935.

The great majority of filling stations and garages have sales of less than $10,000 a year. Almost one-half (48 percent) of the filling stations did less than $5,000 and 69.2 percent of the garages were under that amount. As contrasted to these, 35 percent of the motor-vehicle dealers (new) had sales of $100,000 or more.

More than 60 percent of furniture stores do $10,000 or more per year, and their sales constitute 95 percent of the total. Almost one-half (46.5 percent) of the business of furniture stores is done by 7.5 percent of the stores, with sales exceeding $100,000 each. About 55 percent of household-appliance and radio stores had sales in 1935 of $10,000 or more, and their sales represented well over 90 percent of the total. Other classifications in the furniture-household group, however, are predominantly small stores of less than $10,000 of annual sales.

One out of every four lumber and building-material dealers did less than $5,000 business, while almost exactly the same proportion (25.7 percent) had sales of $50,000 or over. Those under $5,000, however, accounted for only 2.5 percent of total sales as contrasted with the two-thirds of (66.5 percent) of the total for the higher size group.

Eating and drinking places are essentially small-volume establishments with about 75 percent doing less than $10,000 per year and accounting for 31 percent of the total business.

Nearly 38 percent of the drug stores do less than $10,000 per year, but these small stores account for only 12 percent of drug-store sales. Drug stores without fountain show 54 percent of all stores doing less than $10,000 in 1935 as compared to 30 percent for drug stores with fountain. Almost 62 percent of the jewelry stores had 1935 sales of less than $10,000, but their sales accounted for only 16 percent of total sales. In contrast, 31 percent of the total business was done by the stores with sales of $100,000 or more although they made up less than 3 percent of the total stores.

Although 64 percent of all stores (exclusive of chain and mail-order units) did less than $10,000 of business in 1935, with their aggregate sales amounting to less than one-seventh (14.1 percent) of the total retail sales (exclusive of sales of chains and mail-order houses), the instances cited above show that there are many kinds of business to which these general conclusions do not apply. Table 4A provides a detailed analysis of stores and sales by size and kind of business. A similar United States summary of chain and mail-order units by size and kind of business is shown in Table 4G.

DEFINITION OF TERMS

Stores.--Places of business predominately retail in character, in and from which goods are sold to ultimate consumers for consumption or utilization. The number includes filling stations, garages, market stands, lumber and coal yards, eating and drinking places, mail-order houses, district offices of house-to-house canvassers, and leased departments, in addition to retail places of business commonly known as stores.

Sales.--The term sales means total operating receipts of retail stores, after deduction of refunds or allowances on merchandise returned by customers. Sales taxes are included.

Each respondent was asked to provide a breakdown of total sales into as many of the four following sources of receipts as were applicable to the particular business: (a) merchandise sales, (b) sale of meals, and fountain receipts, (c) repairs, storage, and other service sales, and (d) receipts from other sources.

Receipts from Other Sources.--Incidental income, which in 1935 amounted to 0.5 percent (1/2%) of reported sales, is derived from such sources as leased department rental, concessions, cash discounts on equipment purchases, bank interest and other sources not directly involving the purchase and sale of merchandise.

Credit-Cash Analysis of Sales.--Each retail store was asked to report the amount of its sales, exclusive of receipts from other sources, that represented (1) open-account credit, (2) instalment credit, and (3) cash or C. O. D. sales. As the receipts from other sources are not directly related to the sale of merchandise or meals to customers or to the furnishing of services incidental to such sales, they ordinarily do not involve any question of credit policy; thus such receipts were omitted from the sales for purposes of the credit-cash analysis.

Open-account Sales.--Sales on open-account represent the total sales made in 1935 on an open book or charge account basis. The figure reported does not represent the amount of open-account credit outstanding.

Instalment Sales.--Includes all sales of goods on credit with definite provision for payment of the obligation in periodical instalments or portions. This includes so-called budget payment plans. Down-payments, whether in the form of cash or a trade-in allowance, are included as a part of the total sales on instalment. The respondent was requested to report instalment sales financed through finance companies or other third parties as instalment sales and not as cash sales, even when cash was received by the respondent immediately upon consummation of sale.

Cash and C. O. D. Sales.--Includes all sales in which the customer paid cash at the time of purchase or upon the delivery of the merchandise by the store deliveryman (or common carrier). C. O. D. means cash on delivery.

Stocks on Hand.--Represents the cost value of merchandise stocks on hand as of December 31, 1935, or nearest inventory date.

VOLUME VI

SECTION ONE - CREDIT SALES

Section One contains a series of tables (Table 5), one for each State and each city of more than 500,000 population, showing open-account, instalment, and cash and C. O. D. sales by kinds of business. A United States Summary Table, showing similar information by kinds of business (Table 5-A) is shown on Page 23. A United States Summary Table showing credit business for selected kinds of business for 1933 is reproduced from the 1933 Census of American Business on Page 250.

The data in the credit-cash analysis of sales do not include all stores and sales. A number of stores failed to answer the inquiry and in other instances the information was deleted from the tabulations due to misinterpretation of the inquiry by the respondent. On each table (Table 5) a direct comparison is provided between all stores and sales (exclusive of receipts from other sources) and the number of stores and amount of sales included in the analysis of credit and cash business.

The table (Table 5) for States are arranged alphabetically. The cities are placed immediately after the States of which they are a part, and are paged as follows:

SECTION TWO

RETAIL DISTRIBUTION: 1935

SECTION TWO - ANALYSIS OF SALES - VALUE OF STOCKS ON HAND

Section Two contains a series of tables (Table 7), one for each State and each city of more than 500,000 population, showing an analysis of sales and value of stocks on hand, by 66 kinds of business. United States Summary Tables showing similar information by kinds of business (Table 7-A) and by States and geographic divisions (Table 7-B) are shown on Pages 89 and 90, respectively. A United States Summary Table, showing stores, sales, personnel, pay roll, and operating expenses, by 66 kinds of business (Table 1-A) is reproduced on Page 88. Tables 7-A and 7-B from the 1933 Census of American Business are reproduced on Pages 251 and 252 to provide ready reference for comparison purposes.

Table 5 provides a breakdown of total retail sales into the following four sources: (1) sales of merchandise, (2) sales of meal and from fountain, (3) repairs, storage and service receipts, and (4) receipts from other sources. The amount of sales made by retail stores to other retailers is also shown, together with the value of merchandise stocks on hand as of December 31, 1935, or nearest inventory date.

The State tables are arranged alphabetically. The cities are placed immediately after the State of which they are a part and are paged as follows:

VOLUME VI

SECTION THREE - SIZE OF BUSINESS

Section Three contains a series of tables (Table 4), one for each kind-of-business and each business group, showing stores and sales by size groups by States (exclusive of chain and mail-order units). Separate tables are not presented for bicycle shops, luggage stores, and sporting goods stores because of the relatively small number of stores involved. Totals for the United States for these classifications, however, are shown in the United States Summary Tables.

A separate table (Table 4C) showing a breakdown of the "less than $5,000" group is presented for selected kinds of business. Table 4K (page 245) presents a further breakdown of grocery and combination stores (exclusive of chain units) with sales of $10,000 to $19,999.

United States Summaries of size of business (exclusive of chain and mail-order units) by kinds of business and by States are shown in Tables 4A, 4B, 4D and 4E. Similar summaries of size of business for chain and mail-order units by kinds of business are presented in Tables 4G and 4H.

1/ - Total column includes data for certain wholesalers not distributed to size-columns.

2/ - Figures differ from those shown in certain other tables to the extent of 11 stores, 992 full-time employees, and sales of $3,131,000 because of an error in Illinois in classifying these 11 electrical-appliance stores as radio stores.
